

Sustainable Procurement Policy

The Keystone Group's Sustainability Policy states that we will "implement ethically and environmentally responsible procurement".

The Sustainable Procurement policy supports this statement and provides guidelines and objectives for achieving a sustainable procurement procedure that is embedded in Keystone's culture. It is recognized that our purchasing decisions have a large impact outside of the company and this policy aims to minimise any negative environmental and social impacts; to this end we will:

- Comply with, and where possible exceed, relevant legislation;
- In the first instance, reduce the demand for goods and services by minimising waste and focusing on the re-use and recycling of existing goods where applicable;
- Review environmental risks and target high-risk contracts and high-expenditure commodities;
- Consider 'whole life' costs and impacts when assessing equipment for purchase;
- Make Purchasing decisions based not only on economic, but also social and environmental factors;
- Purchase and/or prioritise those items that are manufactured with a high recycled content;
- Include relevant sustainability criteria within all tender exercises and supplier appraisals, where legally appropriate;
- Engage with suppliers to: Promote awareness, Encourage suppliers to adopt similar policies and sustainable approaches in their supply chains, encourage development and promotion of new sustainable products, services and initiatives;
- Raise internal awareness of sustainability issues through the promotion and communication of relevant goods and information;
- Provide training on sustainable procurement for the appropriate people;
- Define key areas for the company and suppliers and monitor and measure sustainable performance in these areas.
- The policy will be implemented, monitored and reviewed by Senior Management in line with current procedure, the policy will be reviewed annually in August.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'O. Coyle', written in a cursive style.

Owen Coyle
Divisional CEO